

Think about the perfect way to explore your research title. Imagine that time, effort and money are no object - what would you do? Complete the top of each of the boxes with your initial ideas. Then listen to the parameters you will need to work with. Scale back your ideas to suit these parameters by writing the new plan in the bottom half of each box. Try not to lose sight of the big picture and keep your research exciting!

