

You will need:

- A ruler with a square rather than bevelled or tapered edge
- Two old store loyalty cards or similar
- A plastic drinking straw
- Two plastic hooks with bases
- Small pad, such as a furniture floor protector
- Scissors
- Strong glue

Instructions:

1. Using some strong glue, secure the 0cm end of the ruler to the top of one of the store cards. Make sure the 0cm line sits exactly on the right hand edge of the store card.

2. Stick the pad onto the store card so that it sits up against the ruler edge.

3. Using the strong glue, secure one of the plastic hooks on top of both the pad and the ruler. The right hand edge of the hook should sit exactly on the 0cm line. The hook should point away from the ruler.

4. Cut two sections of the drinking straw. Each should be around 45mm long, or such that it sits comfortably within the shortest dimension of the store card. Each section should be slit along their length.

5. Open the straws along their slits and place each section of straw on either side of the ruler. Using the strong glue attach the base of the straws to the second store card. The left hand edge of the straw sections need to be against the left hand edge of the store card. Be careful not to get any glue on the ruler itself - the straws and the card need to pass freely along the ruler.

6. Using the strong glue, attach the second hook on top of the straws so that it is pointing in the opposite direction to the first. The edge of the hook needs to align exactly with the left hand edge of the store card.
